Different Game. $18.98
 Metier Records ©2017 MSV 28561 809730856129
 Rhona Clarke is one of the Irish composers living in a shadow - the perception that Irish music consists only of stepdancing, jigs and reels. Our ongoing series of Irish music albums should demonstrate that fallacy. Clarke's work is eclectic, brilliant and varied - from relatively "tough" constructs to quite tonal works with influences of jazz. Her Piano Trio No. 2 appeared on the previous Metier release "Dancing in Daylight", prompting one review to hope for a whole album devoted to her work - here it is. As well as three full pieces for Piano Trio, there are three for members of the ensemble. Apart from the said No. 2 Trio, all the works here are receiving the first recording. The Fidelio Trio continues to gain an ever more positive reputation as one of Europe's most skillfull and innovative ensembles, and is also gaining quite a following in the USA.

24 Inventions For Harpsichord / Ekaterina Likhina, Harpsichord. $12.98

 Stephen Dodgson won Royal Philharmonic Society prizes for his early compositions, which signalled his emergence as a significant figure in British musical life. Though he composed in most genres he wrote with particular distinction for guitar and harpsichord and his sets of Inventions for harpsichord span a period of almost forty years. Scarlatti remained his inspiratino both for rhythmic excitement and for promoting the instrument's expressive power, and he responded by composing what is amongst the twentieth-century's finest music for solo harpsichord: idiomatic, richly characterised and deeply satisfying as well as being creatively challenging for the performer.

 One of the most gifted and prominent of all twentieth-century Lithuanian musicians, Balys Dvarionas was a musical polymath who excelled as a composer, pianist, conductor and teacher. He viewed his native country's folklore as a fundamental part of his artistic heritage and his aesthetic ideas were formed under the influence of nineteenth-century Romanticism. His violin works occupy a special place in his oeuvre. The Sonata-Ballade is his violin masterpiece, full of idiosyncrasies and luminous warmth, while the miniatures encompass subtle charm and effortless virtuosity. With pianist Cesare Pezzi.

Mr. Diabolicus; Mr. Mysterious. $29.98
 Schema Records ©2017 SCEB 956 CD 8018344029566
 Given his fascination with obscure and esoteric topics, an interest that lasted throughout his whole career as a composer of library music, Fabio Fabor must have been diabolic and mysterious for real. The Milan-born composer, who passed away in 2011, had always showcased a darker side compared to other fellow musicians of his era. A side that is well portrayed in works like the famous masterpiece "Pape Satan", or "Satanas", which is included in the very accessible "B 81" or in this splendid and experimental "Mr. Diabolicus - Mr. Mysterious". This is still a library music release, but it is kind of difficult to imagine TV or radio shows accompanied by tracks like "Neutroni", "Mr. Mysterious", "Fucina diabolica" or "Idillio Cosmico". We have nonetheless to acknowledge that in 1973, Italian TV was often surprising the audience with innovative shows, likely to host music such as Fabor's compositions - however, listening again to these 14 short compositions is still an extraordinary experience if we consider their impact and influence on contemporary music and on hip labels of our days like Ghost box. "Sea Melody" and "Mare di ghiaccio" could have been taken from aquatic/biological-themed releases like "Ittiologia" or "Biologia Marina", but the whole album quality is impressive. Along with "Pape Satan", this is probably the best Fabio Fabor ever.

Table of Noises. $18.98
 Nmc Records ©2017 NMCD 218 5023363021821
 This fourth, full-length album of music by multi award-winning composer Simon Holt on NMC showcases his highly narrative orchestral compositions. His violin concerto "Witness to a Snow Miracle" - here performed by the prodigiously talented Chloe Hanslip - depicts the story of the life, and particularly gruesome death, of St. Eulalia of Merida. From the initial, frenzied cadenza in the solo violin we get a sense of the torment and horror the saint suffered at the hands of the Romans: her flesh torn with hooks, flames applied to the wounds, and her body buried in hot coals. A blanket of snow fell on her ashes, at which point she was declared a saint. Holt's other award-winning concerto on this album is a much more upbeat and quirky affair. Written for and performed on this recording by one of the world's finest percussionists, Collin Currie, "A Table of Noises" introduces us to Holt's taxidermist great uncle Ashworth, a kind of maverick scientist-cum-collector. Currie says "this percussion concerto exuberantly tears up the manual on how to approach the medium and I am thrilled with the idiosyncratic, adventure results". The soloist is seated on a cajon, and apart from the xylophone and glockenspiel, all the other instruments are laid out on a table in front of the soloist, hence the title. Each brief movement has a descriptive title and is linked by five "ghost" orchestral interludes.

Frederiksberg: Dacapo Records	©2017	6 220631 747313163168
Apocalyptic and paradisiac visions of good and evil meet aphoristic miniatures of nine small, mainly malignant insects. The rousing graphic imagery of Rued Langgaard (1893-1952) is on full display in this third volume of piano works by the deeply original Danish composer. Including three world premiere recordings, Berit Johansen Tange captures the mysterious forces, poetic gracefulness and absurd hysteria that are all part of Langgaard's both dark and wondrous expression.

Cose. $16.98
 Milano: Stradivarius Records ©2017 STR 37068 8011570370686
 Eric Maestri, born in 1980, has a trajectory toward composition that is equal parts expected and unexpected. The former includes formal education in Brescia and Turin, then Strasbourg, with additional training in Paris. The latter includes a detour into philosophy in Turin and span of six years, in his 20s when he was not active at all in composition. One already gets the sense from these basic facts that he is a composer critical of every move and a man with much more to offer than a mere experience in sound. His experience in realms far beyond music have left an indelible mark on the sensations that he decides to turn into music.

$16.98

Frederiksberg: Dacapo Records ©2017 8 226078 636943607824

Paul Rovsing Olsen (1922-1982) wished for his music to be as close as possible to the listener, evident on this intimate recording of his songs for solo voice, featuring the successful Bruun Hyldig Duo. A student of Messiaen, Rovsing Olsen's songs contain both French and Danish influences; the lyrics, however, come from all over Europe, including poems by William Blake, Ranier Maria Rilke, Charles Baudelaire, Par Lagerkvist and more. A critically acclaimed duo, Bruun Hyldig Duo has been highly praised for their collaboration on two previous Messiaen releases. "Her beauty of tone is matched by the richness and power needed for these remarkable works," (BBC Music Magazine on Bruun) "Rovsing Olsen is a composer of "refined sensibility." (Gramophone)

Wang, Ying, 1976-

Tun-Tu : Chamber Music Renewed. $18.98

Wien: Wergo Records ©2017 WER 7347 2 4010228734720

Shaped equally by her roots in China as well as European influences, Ying Wang, with her struggle for an individual musical language, embodies in an exemplary way the challenges of finding a point of balance between two cultures. Ying Wang mediates between the two cultures. She has achieved quite personal solutions in her works, integrating dramatic impulses and meditative sensual sonorities. She regards as especially fruitful the transferring of techniques for the creation of electronic sounds to acoustical instruments. Restriction and freedom are important criteria in "Wave in D", where Wang, out of extremely limited tonal material, draws a rich assemblage of differentiated sound colors from the possibilities of the traditional instrument and the electronics. In "Tun Tu" baritone saxophone and electronic sounds interact and come together in an imaginary sound landscape. The distorted sounds of the instrument, embedded in a cosmos of mysterious electronic colorations, seem at first almost improvisatory, but "Tun Tu" is rigorously organized. In "Coffee & Tea" Ying Wang reflects on contrasts between the cultures of Asia and Europe and uses coffee and tea as metaphors.

Organ Symphony No. 5 / Carson Cooman, Organ. $18.98
 Divine Art Records ©2017 DDA 25150 809730515026
 German composer Andreas Willscher has won many awards for his compositions, which range widely from symphonic forms and oratorio to cabaret jazz and rock. His organ works are especially fine and varied - involving often a mélange of post-tonal modernism, minimalism, and jazz and rock elements. Willscher is also an active writer of literary and scientific articles and as a collector and preserver of "lost" and forgotten music of the past. Organ Symphony No. 5 is on a grand scale but is mostly quiet peaceful and meditative with only two fast and louder sections: the symphony is subtitled "On Francis' Preaching on Holy Poverty" and is a reflection on the life and teaching of St. Francis of Assisi. Carson Cooman is organist of the Memorial Church at Harvard Univeristy and also a most prolific composer, writer and teacher. His works have appeared in many recordings and have been played in every inhabited continent. This is his first recording for Divine Art as performer, but the label has already released six albums of Cooman compositions with many more planned.
